Course Overview

BMC Server Automation is a leading platform for the management, control, and enforcement of configuration changes in the datacenter. BMC Education Services offers learning paths for key roles across industries and organizations.

The BMC BladeLogic Server Automation 8.x: Fundamentals – Part 1 (WBT) online course introduces students to the core components that make up the BMC Server Automation environment, and the user interface that provides end-user functionality. Through examples, students learn about the key benefits and features of the BMC Server Automation Suite. Students will also learn about the architecture of the BMC Server Automation solution, along with concepts and terminology related to the product functionality.

After completing this course, students will be prepared to participate in the BMC BladeLogic Server Automation 8.x: Fundamentals – Part 2 instructor-led course.

Note: Students should have a basic understanding of UNIX and Microsoft Windows operating systems, relational databases, network and application server administration, and client server application deployment.
